Kendall's Spavin Cure.

The Most Successful Remedy ever discovered, as it is certain in its effects and does not blister. READ PROOF BELOW.

From Rev. P. N. GRANGER,

Presiding Elder of the St. Albans District.
ST. ALBANS, VT., Jan., 20, 1880.

DR. B. J. KENDALL & CO., Gents:—In reply to your letter I will say that my experience with 'Kendall's Spavin Cure' has been very satisfactory indeed. Three or four years ago I procured a bottle of your agent, and with it, cured a horse of lameness caused by a spavin. Last season my horse became very lame and I turned him out for a few weeks when he became better, but when I put him on the road he grew worse, when I discovered that a ring-bone was forming, I procured a bottle of Kendall's Spavin Cure and with less than a bottle cured him so that he is not lame, neither can the bunion be found. Respectfully yours,

P. N. GRANGER.

Perseverance Will Tell.

STROUGHTON, MASS., March 16, 1880.

B. J. KENDALL & CO., Gents:—In justice to you and myself, I think I ought to let you know that I have removed two bone spavins with 'Kendall's Spavin Cure,' one very large one, don't know how long the spavin had been there. I have owned the horse eight months. It took me four months to take the large one off and two for the small one. I have used ten bottles. The horse is entirely well, not at all stiff, and no bunch to be seen or felt. This is wonderful medicine. It is a new thing here, but if it does for all what it has done for me it will be very great.

Respectfully yours, CHAS. E. PARKER.

KENDALL'S SPAVIN CURE is sure in its effects, mild in its action as it does not blister, yet it is penetrating and powerful to reach every deep seated pain or to remove any bony growth or other enlargement, such as spavins, splints, curbs, callous, sprains, swellings, any lameness and all enlargements of the joints or limbs, or rheumatism in man and for any purpose for which a liniment is used for man or beast. It is now known to be the best liniment for man ever used, acting mild and yet certain in its effects.

Send address for Illustrated Circular which we think gives positive proof of its virtues. No remedy has ever met with such unqualified success to our knowledge, for beast as well as man.

Price $1. per bottle, or six bottles for $5. ALL DRUGGISTS have it or can get it for you or it will be sent to any address on receipt of price by the proprietors, DR. B. J. KENDALL & CO., St. Albans, Vermont.

Pearl Fishing in the Indian Ocean.

When cholera and its attendant quarantine forced us to abandon the trip to Bagdad, we lost a chance of seeing the pearl fisheries of the Persian Gulf. Here again in Ceylon we were fated to miss the same coveted sight. The location of the pearl banks is the Bay of Condatchy, less than a hundred and fifty miles north of Colombo. Despite the magnitude of this interest, which is a State monopoly, no town of any extent marks the favored vicinity, and the surrounding landscape is parched, flat, and inhospitable. Yet when it is announced, after an official inspection, that fishing will be permitted during certain months, usually in the spring, the lifeless place becomes all animation. A great fleet of boats gather from the neighboring coasts, and a multitude of natives come from the interior.

At a given signal, that all may fare equally well, the exciting work begins. Hundreds of divers, ready with their sinking stones, ropes, and baskets, instantly plunge into the sea. In a moment they reappear, breathless from the long immersion, with their baskets full of the peculiar mollusks which bear the precious gems. Then another set descend into the depths, each craft having several, and so on till the boats are laden. The divers are sometimes attacked by sharks and obliged to use their knives in defense.

When the oysters are landed a division is made. The boatmen receive either a third or a fourth as their share (I am in doubt which), while the Government generously takes the remainder. Those belonging to the colony are at once disposed of at auction, in lots of a thousand. The result of these sales is, of course, an assured revenue. But such is not the position of the buyer. His purchase is distinctly a speculation. There is no certainty that it will yield in pearls enough to exceed the amount of his outlay. He could bid for unclaimed express packages with equal hope of profit. A hundred oysters may not contain a solitary pearl, and yet two or three might be found in one shell.

The mollusks are allowed to putrefy in the burning sun, and are then carefully washed, to extract the dainty jewels from the foul dross. During this odorous process the owner must be ever vigilant, or his workmen will relieve him of the choicest treasures. In truth, pearl fishing, like mining for diamonds and gold, is for all concerned a precarious occupation.—Singapore Cor. Philadelphia Bulletin.

Water For Sheep.

How many farmers totally neglect providing water for their flocks, except in very hot summers, when grass and everything besides is burnt up? But there can scarcely be a doubt that pure, fresh water ought to be always within access of a flock of sheep, whether they are thought to want it or not. The most experienced and observant of shepherds can not always tell when this ought to be furnished, for some animals may be in a condition to require it and others not. The only safe rule to follow, therefore, is never to allow the deprivation to be experienced by providing water, so as to be within ready access at all times. This is what Mr. Robert Russell, the successful breeder of sheep in Kent, does: One invariable rule which he follows, both in summer and in winter, being never to allow any animal on his farm to go a single day throughout the year without having ready access to two things—pure fresh water and salt.—London Farm and Home.

—The smallest circular saw in practical use is a tiny disk about the size of a five cent-piece, which is employed for cutting the slits in gold pens. They are about as thick as ordinary paper, and revolve some 400 times per minute. Their high velocity keeps them rigid, notwithstanding their extreme thinness.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

A Mountain Springtime.

Spring in all latitudes and longitudes is, indeed, a delightful season. It is more especially so here near the place where winter is stored up for use almost the entire year. Here in the neighborhood where the remains of Sir John Franklin were found, here where a man has to wear a seal skin cap with ear muffs, on the Fourth of July, spring, gentle spring is more heartily welcomed than elsewhere.

All nature is glad at this season of the year and at this elevation. The sociable little cactus comes forth in the gulches while in its bosom the bud is swelling which in June come forth in its tropical brightness. Meek little cactus, emblem of quiet submission, emblem of a reluctant spring. Coy and shy, modest and reserved at times, let not the fresh and gentle stranger undertake to crush thee with his person.

Spring in this torrid clime reaches us about June, and even at that time seems uncertain and lacks that decision of character which marks the season farther away from the open polar sea than we are.

It is at this season that the mountain streams are turned into the irrigating canals and go laughing adown the green-fringed ditches of the town, kissing the oyster can and with a gurgle of satisfaction dallying with the stiffened remains of the holiday corset.

Out in the sun-kissed hills and over the mellow distance where the gray skyingers lovingly on the mountains, the graceful little cottontail is bounding athwart the glorious landscape. On beyond him the eye catches the swift yet noiseless movement of the coyote. In a moment the cotton-tail and the coyote will have melted into each other like a beautiful dream, and the coyote will be on the outside.

In the greenish-gray foreground of this beautiful picture, underneath the protecting boughs of the sage-brush, the sage-hen is laying her eggs. We will not disturb her thoughts. The intellectual strain which it requires to lay an egg should not be harshly broken in upon by the careless and thoughtless worldling.

Across the stretch of level plain and the green divide, the summer zephyr is sighing, and on its heaving bosom it is bearing the seductive odor of the sand fly, the alkali buffalo wallow and the deceased Texas steer.

Spring, sweet-scented advance agent of summer, you are once more among us. Beautiful spring has come.—Nye's Boomerang.

An Affecting Scene.

An Austin young lady, who has enjoyed the advantages of a classical education at a Northern female college, happened to be at home when her aged grandmother was stricken down with a fatal illness. The entire family gathered around the death-bed of the old lady, who, in a feeble voice, said,

"Good bye, to you all, I am gwine ter peg out."

"Grandmother!" exclaimed the young lady, in a tragic tone of voice, "please don't say that. Don't say you are gwine to peg out. Say you are going to expire, or that you contemplate approaching dissolution. It sounds so much better."—Texas Siftings.

A WASHINGTON despatch says that Sam McKee, of Louisville, has been disbarred from practice in the Department of the Interior.

THE Postmaster General had decided to disregard the law of Congress providing for the readjustment of the salaries of postmasters of the fourth and fifth class, owing to the failure of Congress to appropriate the money needed and for the reason of an insufficient clerical force.

COMMISSIONER DUDLEY, of the Pension Bureau, is of the opinion that there will be needed for pensioners, during the present fiscal year $85,000,000 which is the amount he formerly estimated. The sum required depends upon the claims adjudicated, and these, he represents, are being rapidly disposed of.

GOVERNOR BLACKBURN has received from the United States Treasurer a check for $29,498.94 on account of Kentucky's war claim against the Government. This payment makes the sum received by the State during Governor Blackburn's administration, $60,000. Of the amount just obtained $10,000 will go to the credit of the military fund, to be used for encampments, equipments, uniforms, etc. The remainder will go to the revenue proper.

THE Baltimore Sun has the following: Among the first lot of standard silver dollars received at the Baltimore Sub-Treasury from Cincinnati was found one of the most dangerous counterfeits ever seen. Its dangerous character is shown by the fact that it was dated 1879, and bore evidence of having passed through many hands before it reached the Cincinnati Sub-Treasury. The weight and ring were near enough to deceive any one. Something in the appearance of the piece, particularly the milling, excited the suspicion of the coin clerk in the Baltimore office, and he tried the test acids, which had no effect on it. He then dug into the piece a little and applied the acids, when the spurious nature of the coin was found to be composed of a mixture of some hard metal and glass, covered with a very thin coating of silver. Reports from the Treasury Department state that this very dangerous counterfeit has been issued in large quantities in Ohio and Indiana.

NEAL AND CRAFT.

Is There Anything in the Recent Letter Received by Gov. Blackburn.

A special dispatch from Catlettsburg to the Lexington Transcript says: The published letter which Gov. Blackburn received last week from a gentleman in West Virginia created much of a sensation here when the Louisville and Lexington papers arrived Friday night. It had been known that since the recent trial and conviction of Ellis Craft at Grayson, his attorneys and elder brother, Tilman Craft, had been in possession of certain rumors similar to those stated in the letter addressed to the Governor, but were disposed to keep mum over what they had heard.

Hastily donning his traveling bag, your reporter boarded the 1.15 train this afternoon on the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway, and reached Catlettsburg tonight about eight o'clock, determined to ascertain what there was in the new sensation. The results of his investigations, after four hours' diligent search, are these:

Hon. R. C. Burns and Tilman Craft left here early last Saturday morning for West Virginia, claiming to have found a clue which will establish the prisoner's innocence beyond a doubt. At the time the offenses were committed it is a fact that there were two negroes living in Ashland, who had resided there for some months and were well known. A few days after the horrible crime was discovered these negroes suddenly disappeared and have not been seen since. It is to this to which Craft's friends claim to have discovered a clue, and believe it to be a correct one. A letter received here from West Virginia this morning stated, "One of the negroes has been found, and may make a statement." What that statement would contain the Transcript scribe could not ascertain, but doubtless it would benefit the condemned, and new developments of a startling nature may be expected in a few days.

There were several gentlemen at Grayson who expressed a doubt of Neal and Craft's guilt, and had the latter borne as good a character before the commission of the crime as the former, this feeling might perhaps be more general. Here the people are in a quandary, though they talk freely over the recent letter, and whilst they fear there is nothing in it, yet they hope there is, for the sake of Neal's aged father, mother, wife and little children, and Craft's relatives, who bear a high reputation for honorable, law-abiding citizens. Tilman Craft is a leading business man of Catlettsburg, whilst his younger brother is a clerk in his grocery.

The affair puzzling everyone. There is no clue to the assailants. A gardener potting geraniums thirty yards from the scene neither saw nor heard anything of the occurrence. Lady Florence says she called to her husband for help. She states that she should be sorry to attribute the outrage to the Land League.

ROSSER & McCARTHY,
PUBLISHERS AND PROPRIETORS.

A BUSY man is on his rounds,
And at your house will call
For just precisely what you'll know,
Some time the coming fall.
He is a smooth, mild-mannered chap,
The same to great and lesser,
And this man is, to make it short,
That awful Tax Assessor.

THE advance of the Pittsburgh coal fleet passed down yesterday.

THE Right Rev. T. U. Dudley, Assistant Bishop of Kentucky, will be in Maysville, on the 22nd of April (fourth Sunday after Easter) for the purpose of conducting confirmation services at the Church of the Nativity. While in Maysville the Bishop will be the guest of Mrs. Gray.

MR. M. C. HUTCHINS, attorney for Mrs. Susanah D. Nolin, has succeeded in obtaining for that estimable lady, a pension for life at the rate of $8 a month, beginning March 9th, 1878. Her husband, the late Thomas D. Nolin was a soldier of the war of 1812. The first payment made to Mrs. Nolin will be nearly $500.

THE attention of the Health Committee is called to the mass of decaying grain in the cellars of the wrecked buildings at the corner of Second and Wall streets. The odors from it are very offensive and are much complained of by the people who live in that neighborhood. The cause of it all should be removed immediately.

A FEATURE of the wedding ceremony last night that was very interesting was the part taken by little Jamie and Lottie Rogers, of Sharpsburg. They bore the two rings used on a salver and acquitted themselves of their important duties very handsomely. The bridesmaids were each presented by the bride with a handsome bracelet, which were clasped upon their arms by the bride herself.

PERSONALS.

Points About People Here and Elsewhere.

Dr. H. Ebersole is in the city to-day.

Mr. Milton Andrews, of Augusta is the guest of the family of Mr. M. C. Russell.

Misses Anna Miller and Anna Austin returned this morning from a visit to friends in Manchester, O.

Wedding Bells.

Miss Lillie B. Smith, daughter of Mr. James Smith, one of our most respected citizens, was married on Wednesday evening at the Presbyterian Church to Mr. John D. Tash, of Philadelphia. The ceremony by the Rev. S. B. Alderson, a combination of the Presbyterian and Episcopalian, was very beautiful and impressive. The church was decorated with flowers, conspicuous among which were two beautiful lilies in full bloom, sent by a loving friend of the bride. The bride was very lovely and the groom as handsome and happy as a man ought to be on the great day of his life. The bride's costume was of India Mull and lace and very elegant and becoming.

The attendants were Miss Ella Tash, of Philadelphia; Miss Lulu Rogers, of Sharpsburg; Miss Mary Williams, of Mt. Sterling, a niece of Senator John S. Williams, and Miss Anna Stockton, of this city. The gentlemen attendants were Mr. Ed. Gage, of Cleveland, Ohio; Mr. George Hukill, of Cincinnati; Major W. H. Means and Mr. Sam. A. Smith, of this city. The bride received a great number of elegant and costly presents from her numerous friends.

Miss Smith was one of our most popular and charming ladies, whose removal from the city will be much regretted. Mr. and Mrs. Tash left the same evening for Washington City, after which they will go to their home at Philadelphia. The BULLETIN offers its congratulations and best wishes.

A Necessity of the Day.

Few minor inventions have been so readily appreciated and come so quickly into general use as the stylographic pen. None who have used one will ever be contented with any less convenient apparatus for writing, and in a short time there will be few who have occasion to write at all who have not adopted it. The general principle of the stylographic pen is so familiar as to require no explanation. We have made trial of various kinds, but have found none to equal the improved Livermore Stylographic Pen, which combines all the advantages of other makes. It is convenient to use, writes with any kind of good ink, and is practically indestructible. Sold at first for $3 each, the price has recently been reduced to $2 for plain pens, with fifty cents extra for gold mounted. By sending that amount to Louis E. Dunlap, Manager Stylographic Pen Company, 290 Washington street, Boston, a pen, together with a package of superior ink, will be sent by return mail, and the money will be at once refunded if they do not prove to be perfect in every respect.—Morning Mail, Lowell, Mass.

Fire.

This morning about 11 o'clock, a fire broke out in the third story of the brick building on Front street, near Limestone, belonging to Mrs. McDonald, but fortunately it was suppressed by the fire department before any very serious damage was done. The flames were first discovered in a room occupied by Mrs. Minton on the back part of the third floor. As the lady was absent and the door locked it is supposed the fire originated from a coal falling from the grate. The loss was inconsiderable but was fully insured in the London and Liverpool and Globe Company. Mrs. Minton lost nearly all of her furniture and other effects.

WHILE the Steamer Handy was lying at Vanceburg last Sunday Hewson Clay, a colored roustabout on the boat, slipped and fell into the river off the wharfboat and drowned before assistance could be rendered. He was playing with another boy at the time. Efforts were made to recover the body, but with no effect.

Sale of Rosa Wilkes.

A despatch from Atlanta, Ga., announces the sale of Rosa Wilkes in that city a day or so ago, by her owner W. T. Anderson, of Marion, to A. B. Winship, of Providence, R. I., for $11,000. It has been rumored several times that such a transfer had been made, but it has also turned out to be unfounded. The mare is one of the fastest in the country and last season gained a record of 2:18 1/2. She is by Geo. Wilkes. As will be remembered, Rosa and Monroe Chief trotted a great race at Lexington, in which she was beaten, although it is generally conceded that Budd Doble, who was behind the Chief, outgeneraled Coot, who drove the mare. It was a remarkable contest, and Monroe Chief won on the sixth heat. They had each secured two, and the fifth was declared a dead heat.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

Rosa Wilkes, it will be remembered, won the purse in the 2:26 class at this place last May, in three straight heats, over London, Mamie, Una, St. Remo and Lady Brownell.

ABERDEEN ITEMS.

As Easter approaches, society is on the qui vive discussing the wedding, which is on the tapis—concerning one of our most prominent brunette belles; a report which is in circulation says, she is to marry a handsome Chilagoan, a non-such.

What are we going to do about it, our town has so few eligible widowers. We hear that the most captivating one, is about to leave us and locate elsewhere.

It is said Mrs. Robert Brookover understands the art of entertaining, that the person who receives an invitation to one of her musical soirees is made supremely happy.

It is strange how our quiet little town, seems to attract some of the Maysvillians of a Sunday afternoon, it may be the quietness of our town, such subdues the Maysvillian's distractred brain.

Miss Tillie Small one of our most vivacious young ladies is now coquettish from her recent sickness, much to the delight of a certain young gentleman.

Distance lends enchantment has certainly been proven by the Maysville gentlemen. They have an appreciative ear for a high order of music.

Mr. Stephen Kimball, an esteemed citizen near Aberdeen, died on the 19th inst., at the age of forty years.

Our little town owing to the recent flood has presented as sad an appearance as the solemn occasion of Lent could require. But she will soon regain her former appearance of attractiveness, as the balmy spring advances.

Miss Emma Young has returned home after a visit of several months at St. Louis with relatives. Her many friends welcome her again in the their midst, as her bright superior mind lends a charm of surpassing attraction wherever her presence is known.

GERMANTOWN.

The wheat is looking very bad in this section of the country.

The dirt roads which have been in such a bad condition this winter, are drying up very fast.

Our little town is getting quite religious. We have had preaching night and day for about two months. Another protracted meeting is to be commenced as soon as the one now in progress closes.

On last Thursday night a host of friends assembled at the residence of Mr. William Dickson near this place to witness the marriage of his daughter, Miss Miss Anna Dickson to Mr. Charles Galbraith, of Bracken county. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Thomas E. Tiller, of the Brooksville Baptist Church, in the most elegant manner. After the nuptial knot was tied and the usual congratulations were extended the company was treated to an excellent "pass around" when received the compliments of all present. About nine o'clock the friends dispersed with their heartfelt thanks for their generous reception. The attendants were Miss Ella Goiling, a charming and accomplished young lady of Maysville and Mr. Thomas Insko, of this community. The bride was clad in a costume of wine colored silk with satin trimmings in silver ornaments. She is quite an accomplished young lady whose amiability, virtue and kindness have won her many friends.

The groom is a young gentleman who by his honesty and uprightness has gained the esteem of all. In Friday morning the couple and attendants repaired to the residence of Mr. H. B. Galbraith where a number select friends were in waiting to receive them. An excellent dinner was spread, the table being almost crushed under its weight of turkey, chicken, cake &c., but was relieved of some of its burden in due time. The evening was one of enjoyment and will long be remembered by all who were present. That their lives may be full of sunshine is the best wishes of all.

Successful Farming.

Excellence in farming is a rare thing. Slip-shoddiness in many communities is the rule rather than the exception. But in every neighborhood some good farmers may be found—men who have a natural taste for the management and control of a farm, and they may be easily known from their less thrifty neighbor (leaving the crops out of the question), by the general appearance of their farms. We have in our mind's eye a man we consider a model farmer. His buildings are plain, but they are neat and tidy; his barns are large, airy, well ventilated and scrupulously clean; his fences are common running plank fences, white-washed, as are the barns and out-houses above mentioned. No briars nor thistles nor noxious weeds disgrace his fields nor fence rows. His flocks are fat and sleek, and his grass and pasture lands are as free from stones and logs and brush as his parlor floor.

His land is of the best quality, and his crops are as good as the best. No one can gather good crops from poor soil, but every one can work his land so as to keep it good when it is good, and so as to improve it every year when it is worn and thin. It is impossible, however, for the proprietors of worn out farms to keep them in as good repair or to improve them as rapidly as the man who has none but rich land. Rich land, with good management, makes wealthy farmers; poor land, on the other hand, is the most fruitful cause of discontent, and finally disgust with the noblest of all professions.

However, the humblest and poorest of us may, if we only put our heart in our work, do much more toward beautifying and improving our homes than we ever think of doing.

"The heart lendeth grace unto every art," and no man who engages in farming temporarily, or who has grown discontented with his life, and only waits on the farm until some other business is open to him, can ever hope to be successful. Farming is a science, and as such must be studied.

The man who makes a successful farmer, as the phrase goes, must:

1. Have a taste for the business.
2. Once settled on the farm he must make his home pleasant and comfortable if he would be contented and happy. Whitewash is a power in transforming the plainest of things into something really attractive; it is also very healthful.

3. He must regard his farm as his home for a life time. No one can expect to thrive in any business who engages in it temporarily. Many failures are made in life by really sensible men because they refuse to stick to any one thing long at a time. No man can hope to become proficient in more than one profession in an ordinary lifetime. The man, therefore, who enters upon the life of a farmer should pursue the same course exactly that the man who enters the law or the medical profession pursues, viz., he should determine in the outset to devote his life and talents and his entire time to the business of farming.

4. He should be diligent, and
5. Possess good judgment.

The man thus armed is the man for the farm. It is only such men that really deserve to be dignified with the honorable name of farmer.—Farming World.

Parental Affection.

Considerable indignation and no small degree of excitement has been created in Austin by the brutal treatment by old man McGrath of his only son, Pete. The old man is very wealthy, while the son is in actual need. It seems that, driven to desperation, the young man went to his father, and asked him for five dollars with which to allay the rapacity of his landlord, which request was refused.

"Ain't you going to assist me a little, anyhow, in paying my rent?" asked the disconsolate son.

"I've not got a particle of pay rental affection," responded the old man with a hideous leer.

The sympathy of the Austin public is entirely with the victim of the horrid pun.—Texas Siftings.
